This year, delegates to the 2006 Tennessee 4-H Congress are asked to bring NEW stuffed animals to be donated to the Nashville Metro Police Department to help them when they respond to youth in times of crisis.

Sometimes children are brought to the police station when they are lost, abused, removed from their families, or in case of natural disaster. The officers offer the cuddly critters as a form of support and comfort to the children.

The Tennessee 4-H program is excited to be a part of youth helping youth in their community, and encourage every delegate to bring CRITTERS OF COMFORT for a friend in need.
